

A photograph of a young boy in a school uniform (maroon sweater over a white collared shirt and a striped tie) holding a large, hand-drawn protest sign. He is looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. To his left, another boy in a dark jacket looks down. In the background, several men are standing against a stone wall. One man in a grey suit is looking to the right, and another in a light-colored jacket has his arms crossed. The sign is white with blue and black lettering.
