

A group of young people, mostly of South Asian descent, are marching on a street. They are carrying a large white banner with green text. In the foreground, a young man in a blue jacket and grey trousers is walking towards the left. To his left, a young child in a light blue jacket is holding a sign. Other young people are standing in a line behind them, some holding poles for the banner. A red flag is visible on the far left. The background shows a brick building and a utility pole.
